Prior to joining the Fairness Center, Conner managed local, state, and federal political campaigns, and worked in the financial industry developing financial strategies for at risk populations. As an advocate of individual rights for more than a decade, Conner has worked with nonprofit, for profit, and advocacy groups to protect the constitutional and human rights of people in Pennsylvania and across the country.

Conner earned his MBA from Lehigh University where he served a year as Treasurer of the MBA Association. Beyond the classroom, Conner worked as a student advocate to improve the program, and developed decentralized campaign finance tools to support equal ballot access at the state level.

Conner holds undergraduate degrees in Government & Law and Psychology from Lafayette College. While there, he was appointed by the Dean to represent more than 800 Greek life members by sitting on an advisory group on student health, and continues to serve as the Alumni Liaison for Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

A native Mainer and outdoorsman, Conner spends his free time hunting, camping, and fishing with his dog Yukon.
